Deaf members to see sign-language sermons

PASADENA — The Church's Educational Services for the Handicapped has been asked by Ronald Dart, director of pastoral administration, to provide sign-language interpreters for deaf Church members at "two or three" U.S. sites of the Feast of Tabernacles this fall.

Mr. Dart is also looking into providing interpreters for deaf members in some church areas in the United States for one or two Sabbath services per month during the year.

According to Hugh Mauck, director of Educational Services for the Handicapped, which also serves blind Church members, his department hopes to provide, "for those of you who are deaf, typed scripts from among our radio and TV programs which we feel will be the most helpful to you."

Mr. Mauck said his department is now selecting from among scripts that have already been completed and will soon make available a list to choose from.

"Following the completion of the list, we will also make scripts available of the most important headquarters sermons given by one of the Armstrongs or headquarters evangelists."

He said plans are also being made to send scripts of radio and television programs automatically to those on a "script-subscriber list."

Mr. Mauck requests that deaf members who would like to subscribe to the service write him at Educational Services for the Handicapped, Box 111, Pasadena, Calif., 91123. He requested that mailing labels from The Plain Truth, The Good News or The Worldwide News be included with any correspondence.

"Tell us you are deaf and wish to have your name placed on our special script-subscriber list," Mr. Mauck said.

"Tell us also if you plan to attend the Feast of Tabernacles services this fall and if so which one. Tell us too if you would be willing to attend another Feast site where our sign-language interpreters will be if one is not scheduled to be at the location you originally planned to attend."

Mr. Armstrong and Jerusalem Mayor Teddy Kollek were to assist in dedicating the Liberty Bell Park, so named because it is built around a replica of America's original Liberty Bell given to Jerusalem by the City of Philadelphia, Pa. The dedication had been scheduled for July 2, two days

Letters TO THE EDITOR

Pastors' pictures

Enclosed is my subscription donation for the renewal of The Worldwide News. I really enjoy reading it. There's so much wonderful news. I also really enjoyed having the pictures of all the pastors [June 7]. Makes one feel we know them.

The supplement featuring photographs of God's ministers is an excellent idea. I would like to thank you for that great service.

Thank you so, Mr. [Ronald] Dart, Mr. [John] Robinson, Scott Moss, Ken Evans and of course the ministry for putting in a lot of long hours to serve us.

Keep up the good works.

Mrs. Ghislaine G. Perrault
St. Johnsbury, Vt.

Enclosed is a check for the renewal of my subscription. Thank you and all who are responsible for a wonderful paper which informs us about the Work and the people of God everywhere.

Enjoy very much the "Personal" of Mr. Ted Armstrong and of his father's, when possible.

I just have one complaint, and that is about the pastors' pictures and their area which they will be pastoring.

[For] our new pastor, Mr. Ben Whitfield, you put just Longview [Tex.]. You forgot that he will be pastoring the Lufkin church also. That made us feel left out. We, as part of God's Church of the Lufkin area, would like to be acknowledged also. I hope you will forgive my impertinence, but just wanted to let you know how we feel.

Mrs. Burl Jo Taylor
Kennard, Tex.

We regret that, because of lack of space, we could only print the names of one city and state under each minister's name, even for ministers who pastor more than one congregation.

Thanks so much for the insert of June 7 WN (containing photos of ministers and a map of local churches across the U.S.). Now when we do our traveling we won't have to worry about where the nearest church for a certain location may be — we'll know! I've wanted something like this for a long time.

We've never been out of Michigan, but, who knows? (Someday?)

Do hope you can keep a renewed list of same each year.

Mrs. G. Crifasi
Capac, Mich.

... Amazing how some men change with the years (in looks) and others remain the same. Or maybe they were older pictures. I go back to 1958. Is John Hammer "Tony"? ... Will be looking for your next supplement. I read Worldwide News from cover to cover before I put it down. I have to use my magnifying glass, the print is so small, but I read it.

C.B. Henderson
Hillsdale, Mich.

All but two of the photographs were taken at the May ministerial conference in Pasadena. The two not taken at the conference were less than a year old. And, yes, John Hammer is better known as Tony Hammer.

Thanks to all of you for our fantastic WN and especially for the "center fold" of our handsome and beloved ministers. Do hope all of them can eventually be added.

Jonnie Phillips
Irving, Tex.

Thanks for the pictures of the ministers and the map. Now I can show my family what I'm talking about when I mention a name of one of God's ministers.

Mr. Keith Thomas, my old friend and pastor from Minnesota, looks much better

No hard feelings

Would you please print our "apology" in the WN paper to our brethren concerning a chain letter we sent them. We never realized it was illegal. In fact, it was the first we'd ever sent, out of curiosity for the results. We're very sorry and hope there are no hard feelings. We appreciate those who wrote back to us. Hope you'll forgive us for the trouble we've put you through.

See it this way

I . . . would like to take the opportunity to thank you for and congratulate the WN. I read every time every line in it. Especially since we have toured the U.S.A., it is even more exciting to us, since we know so many people and places. But even for the other people in the Church around the world, I think it is a VITAL organ to keep the Church not only informed, but closer knit together. I think it is a terrific aid for praying for the Work. I wish all those people who are not subscribing to it would see it that way! Thanks for your effort!!!

Fritz Sonderegger

Just a short letter in praise of WN, the way you handle matters, the good it does for all of us. I surely appreciate the news of the Work in the international field. Enjoyed Vic Simpson's article in May 10 paper on the Work in the Caribbean, the profuse amount of material on the conference and names with assignments from May 24 paper, news from Australia, also concerning Mr. [Adil] Muhtadi's help in arranging meetings with Arab leaders. Please continue same. I pray God's blessings on this support function of the Work.

Worley E. Berisford

I deeply appreciate all the great work of WN and how it brings us all closer together as one big family. To inspire us to pray more for God's great Work, and have more outgoing concern for all the ministers, and for all the brethren miles apart . . .

I'm thankful for the day two years ago when one of God's dynamic servants told me about The Worldwide News. My eyes won't let me read all I'd like to, but I live in hopes for my eyes to be blessed more and more.

Tornado hits home

By Kay Bush

LEMONT, Ill. — The home of a Church member, Ed Parker, was one of 75 destroyed in a tornado that touched down east of here June 13. Mr. Parker is a member of the Chicago Southwest church, which meets at Hinsdale, Ill.

Shortly after 5 p.m. the tornado hit, doing an estimated $2.8 million worth of damage to 125 homes. Two persons were killed and 23 injured. Lemont Mayor George Bracken was quoted as saying, "This is the largest tragedy that has hit Lemont in my time."

After the storm Mr. Parker reported his home was "nothing but rubble," and even his two cars had been destroyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker were in the house when the tornado struck and their son outside, but the family escaped with scratches and bruises. Mr. Parker gives God the credit for saving their lives.

The tornado was unusual in that it went northeast and then doubled back on itself, moving west, with high winds damaging trees and power lines. The violent weather also dumped eight inches of rain in some areas and flooded a four-mile-square area of southwest Chicago.

AC students reach out to others

By Roger Fakhouri

PASADENA — More than 80 Ambassador College students are involved with what has been named the Ambassador Outreach Program, a community-service project sponsored and supported by AC faculty, staff and students.

"The Outreach organization is one of the best things to develop out of the Ambassador structure in many years," said Dean of Students Charles Oehlman. "It begins to focus a person's attention to the needs of the world vs. his own personal needs."

Chris Beam, Outreach coordinator for the campus, said: "The Outreach organization was formed by student volunteers. The express purpose was to give the students an outlet for church and community service. In so doing, the students derive personal satisfaction."

Outreach's services fall into three areas:

- Entertainment of all types for disadvantaged people. The form of entertainment varies from comedy to music and makes use of a range of volunteer talent.

- Personal visiting. Outreach arranges and organizes individual visits to those who need companionship, usually the elderly and handicapped who cannot easily move about and therefore are often alone.

- Activities, including parties, movies and educational programs.

"Ambassador College's philosophy has always been one of outgoing service to mankind," commented Keith Jones, director of public relations for Outreach.

"However, the Ambassador Outreach Program now is a concrete plan to reach the community on a grassroots level."

By developing student awareness of Church and community needs, Outreach would create a structure that is transferable to other communities. When participating students graduate from AC and return to their local communities, they will take with them the experiences and training they received from Outreach. Such students would be a tremendous asset to a local church, organizers hope.

The volunteers for Outreach so far are mainly students, but some other Church members from the area assist. Outreach feels more members would be interested in helping and plans to seek more support from them.

There is no Outreach office, meeting place or other physical facility. The people involved work out of their homes or dormitories, so meetings are usually in the college's student center. Outreach officials say they need office space and a central meeting place.

The program's financing is totally by the volunteers themselves, though they have asked for assistance from the college's student council.

Outreach feels its potential is almost limitless. The biggest factor holding Outreach back is the lack of finances.

Softball team begins season with name-the-team contest

By Bob Bittner

WILLINGBORO, N.J. — The Philadelphia softball team began a new season with a "Name That Team Contest," won by Tony Narwinski, who was awarded $7 for his efforts. The team is now known as the Freedoms.

Diane says the snake was at least seven feet long. Other, less-involved eyewitnesses say that two feet would be closer.

Visitors to the new Australian screaming triple that sparked a four-run first inning.

At the game, played on Mother's Day night, all moms present received a gift of a bunch of mums.

May 16 the Philadelphia church's team played a doubleheader, defeating the first-place Worms 7-0. The game was a brilliant three-hit (all singles) shutout pitched by Tom Oakley, team manager and one of the ministers of the church. During the game no Worm runner reached as far as third base.

George Van Lieu of the Freedoms had the game's only extra-base hit, a home run.

In the second game of the doubleheader, Willingboro Lanes whipped the Freedoms 20-8 in a rain-shortened game.

To date, the team has a 3-2 record, good for second place.

The church team won its opener May 2 against the Jaycees 12-7. The second game was part of a doubleheader, lost to the Worms 7-5.

But the team came back its next game, clobbering Woolco 21-6. In that game Jeff Nissen, youngest member of the Freedoms at 18, hit the first pitch of the game for a

European conference briefs ministers

By Peter M. Butler

BRICKET WOOD, England — Leslie McCullough, director of the International Division, flew here from Vancouver, B.C., Canada, for a European ministerial conference June 9 and 10.

The conference was called to brief ministers from Britain and Europe who had not been able to attend the conference at Pasadena in May. The ministers, many of them with their wives, heard a report on the Pasadena conference from Mr. McCullough and from Frank Brown, regional director for the British Work, and discussed at length the doctrinal statements presented.

Changes affect "PT"

Mr. McCullough reported on the progress of the Work in the United States and in the International Division, and Mr. Brown outlined decisions reached in Pasadena for changes in the Work in Europe to insure a renewed emphasis on the Church's first commission.

The changes will affect The Plain Truth magazine. It has been decided that the European editorial teams should work closely with Pasadena to produce an international issue of The Plain Truth basically compatible in all four language editions — English, French, German and Dutch — beginning this fall. This is to give the magazine more of an international character, but necessary national identity will be retained in each language.

Plans are also to include in the French, German and Dutch editions an eight-page supplement equivalent to The Good News magazine for readers who request it. The Good News itself, which is published only in English, is, of course, available in Britain.

It has also been decided that the European English-language PT should be available to Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and the Philippines, so these areas will coordinate with the Bricket Wood Editorial Department to insure they have input into the international edition.

German Newsstands

Mr. Brown reported that a decision has been made to hold newsstand circulation of The Plain Truth in Britain to 330,000. By contrast, the editors hope to rapidly increase circulation of the German magazine from an all-time low of 16,000. Klar und Wahr, which will increase from 16 to 32 pages, will be placed on newsstands again in Germany. The previous newsstand program there was suspended a year ago.

Mr. Brown gave a report on the Ambassador International Cultural Foundation (AICF) and reported that Human Potential magazine is to be regularly published this winter in the United States, with the European publication date following "perhaps three months later." Then followed a discussion on possibly establishing groups in church areas in Britain equivalent to AICF chapters in America.

The ministers then heard from Mr. Brown and Mr. McCullough that the Work in Britain is still having to be subsidized from overseas partly because of a current 7 percent decrease in indigenous income. It is still hoped a purchaser will soon be found for the college campus here, but in the meantime the Canadian church, with substantial increases in income in recent months, will come to the aid of the European brethren, in Britain, Scandinavia and Germany, to help make up deficits and insure the program's continuation.

Finally, Paul Suckling, recently returned from Pasadena to assist Mr. Brown in Britain, gave a report on the establishment of Youth Opportunities United activities in the churches in Britain and preparations for the Summer Educational Program at Loch Lomond in Scotland this summer. Garner Ted Armstrong plans to spend time at the camp this year.

Area coordinator honored

By Dick Quincer

PASADENA — One hundred ten friends and former employees of evangelist Norman Smith honored him June 10 at a farewell dinner on the Ambassador College campus here.

Mr. Smith, former vice president for the Media Division, is now coordinator of the Church's Northwest Area of the United States. The Smiths have moved to Chico, Calif., where Mr. Smith also serves as pastor of the Chico church.

The friends and former employees expressed their appreciation for Mr. Smith's more than 25 years of dedicated service to the Media Division. He was responsible for the development of the radio and television departments and the direction of their contribution to the Work of God.

Art Gilmore, announcer for The World Tomorrow since 1948, and his wife Grace were also on hand. John Lundberg, manager of the Television Production Department, was master of ceremonies for the evening.

Mr. Smith was presented a Texas Instruments programmable calculator and Mrs. Smith a Crock-Pot as tokens of friendship. A special citation and statue were also presented to Mr. Smith.

NORMAN SMITH

'PT' takes Gospel to England

BRICKET WOOD, England — With the recent appointment of two full-time newsstand representatives — David Lloyd, covering northern England, and Les Buckley, responsible for southern and western England — together with part-time Scottish representative Ernie Winchester, the British program to prominently display The Plain Truth in key cities is now gaining momentum.

In April and May 330,000 copies of the magazine were distributed to the British public each month through many newsstand outlets.

The Plain Truth is also mailed to about 50,000 readers.

Plans call for a pegging of newsstand copies at the 330,000 mark for at least six months because of finances. But efforts will be made to insure that the best outlets are used. A program is under way to eliminate nonproductive outlets, and high-response stands are being nurtured and developed as the British budget permits.

The mail subscribers in Britain will be asked to cover postage costs in a renewal project to make more magazines available for newsstands.

One copy in three of every newsstand PT in the near future will carry a subscription-offer envelope to encourage new subscribers to assist with mailing costs.

Many Church members across the British Isles regularly help service the newsstands with magazines.

Gordon Muir, who has shouldered the bulk of the responsibility for the program, the only means currently of getting the Gospel to Britain, is to transfer to Pasadena soon to assist Jack Martin, circulation manager for the United States. Dr. Muir's position as British circulation manager will be assumed by David Gunn.

BRISTOL, England — About four months after her son Anthony was born, Mrs. Margaret Dolman noticed that his left leg was shorter than his right one. Also, his left foot was unusually small.

The Dolmans' doctor examined Anthony and found that the whole left side of his body, including his head, face, eyes and tongue, was affected.

The doctor explained that Anthony had a rare condition and referred him to a specialist, who concluded that medical science could do nothing for him.

During Anthony's first year his condition worsened. Then he developed an infection in both ears, eventually damaging his eardrums. Three courses of penicillin didn't clear it up, so draining of the fluid from the ears was suggested.

It was at this time that Mrs. Dolman's neighbor, Mary Boyce, a member of the Bristol church, suggested having Anthony anointed. So Mrs. Dolman contacted the local minister, who anointed him.

The next day Anthony's face appeared swollen on the left side. Mrs. Dolman and Mrs. Boyce examined his face and found that it was not swollen; his face had just become symmetrical, with both sides matching in size — and he was standing with both feet firmly on the ground (previously he couldn't).

They checked on all the defects they knew had been there. They were all gone. Anthony jumped up and down on both legs, chuckling happily.

From that day he no longer cried at night with earache. When he had a physical examination at 1 year, his eardrums were perfect and his hearing acute.

When the specialist examined him again he said there was only a slight difference in the length of his legs, normal, he said, with most people.

BICENTENNIAL BY-PRODUCT — Marie Elston, who earns extra money by quilting, produced this patriotic quilt in conjunction with America's bicentennial. Designed by Mark Robinson, associate pastor of the Fort Worth church, the quilt took three months to complete and is composed of white stars on a blue background with a red border. Mrs. Elston lives in Keller, Tex., with her husband Leo, who occasionally helps her with quilting chores and lends her moral support. Both attend church in Fort Worth. [Photo by Mark Robinson]

STORY FOR YOUNG READERS By Shirley King Johnson

Major stretched and yawned and got up from his rug on Grandpa's front porch. It was the Sabbath Day. Major always knew when the Sabbath came on the farm because Jim and Susie got dressed up and went with Grandma and Grandpa to a place they called "church." They usually were gone until towards sunset.

His nap finished, Major decided to see what was going on down in the timber. He trotted out to the front gate, pushed it open with his shoulder and started down the gravel road. He liked the strange, wild smells in the ditches and banks and he took his time, weaving from one side of the road to the other. He kept going. Padding over Grandpa's long bridge that spanned the Seven Mile Creek, he passed along the road that climbed a hill to where Mattsons' neat white farmhouse stood back from the road.

A big, gentle Swede lived there, but Major did not turn in at the open gate to see if he were home. Some time ago, when he had innocently barked a greeting to a hen and her brood of fluffy chicks behind the fence, they skittered away in fright. Watchful Mrs. Mattson had burst from the back door, waving a broom. He did not want to cause another disturbance.

The road was hot in the sun as Major trotted on, and he finally paused in the shade of a wild-plum thicket. He eyed the paved highway that stretched out along the next hill. Two big trucks with tires humming sped along the ribbon of concrete.

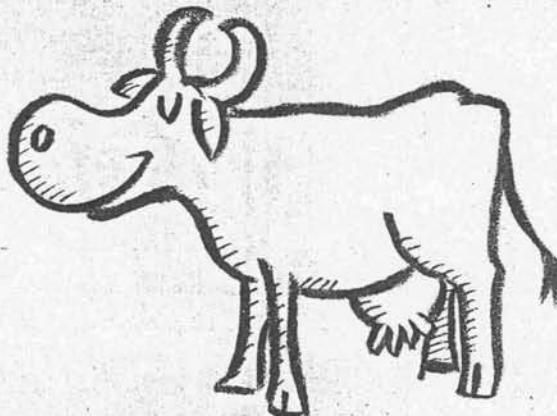

Major tucked his tail closer to his toes. He would not like to have it under those tires!

Curious Glance

Then he noticed a small, red cow plodding along in the center of the gravel road that led up to the highway. A little roan calf frisked at her side.

Major straightened. That looked like Grandpa's cow Sadie and her calf Blossom. What were they doing up there by the highway?

Returning to the road in two leaps, Major began to cover the distance between them at top speed. He caught up to the cow and calf just as they neared the shoulder of the concrete. The cow gave him a curious glance as he rushed past, whirled and stopped.

"Woof!"

Sadie angled off to step around him, and little Blossom followed at her heels.

Major flung himself at the cow and nipped at one hoof.

"Moo-oo!" With lowered head, the cow swung round to confront him.

Major charged at Blossom next, yipping for her to turn back, and the little calf frolicked off into the ditch. The cow followed after her.

Major blocked the way to the highway, forbidding the cow or calf to venture farther, and at last they grew tired of the game, turned and sauntered back along the country road. Major tried to hurry them, but Sadie grew indignant if he trotted too close to Blossom, so he had to be patient.

Barked Warning

Sadie wanted to turn in at Mattsons' farm driveway, but Major hurled himself in front of her and barked a warning. The cow and calf kept going.

The sun sank lower. It seemed cooler when the animals reached Grandpa's farm yard at last and turned in automatically.

Major wondered how they had made their way out of the barn lot and up to the road. Then he saw that the small side gate by the water tank stood open. Jim had swiped it open early in the morning to let Susie go with him down to the barn and he had not closed it.

After Sadie and Blossom plodded through the gate, Major sat down in the center of the opening to wait. As he lowered his chin to his paws he heard Grandpa's car rumble over the bridge half a mile away.

He waited beside the garage to greet the occupants as they piled out of the car.

"Hi, Major!" Jim stooped to give his pet's neck and back a good rubbing. "Did you have a long day?"

Jim Forgot

"Look, Jim," Grandpa said, pointing down the slope toward the barn. "You're the only one who opened that side gate this morning. Did you leave it open like that?"

"I . . . guess I must have," Jim said in a worried voice. "I'm sorry. I forgot."

"I forgot, I forgot," Grandpa repeated. He shook his head but his voice didn't scold. "You're Manasseh, all right."

Susie stepped up between Grandpa and Jim. "Oh, he's not Nassah, Grandpa, he's Jim. Jim Wilson."

Grandpa gave Susie a hug. "Manasseh was one of Joseph's sons, Susie. You remember Joseph, who was sold into slavery by his brothers, don't you?"

"Oh, that Joseph," Susie replied. "Course I do."

"Well, he had a boy named Manasseh, and this Manasseh and his descendants have been mighty forgetful through the years. His name means 'one who forgets.' "

"Better run down and close the gate, Jimmy," Grandma said as she started toward the house. "Then you'll remember to shut it next time. We can be thankful Sadie and Blossom are still in there munching hay."

"Yes'm, I'll close it," said Jim, starting down the slope. "I'll be more careful, I won't forget it again."

"That's the spirit," said Grandpa. "Then while Grandma gets supper you can romp in the yard with Major. He hasn't had any exercise all day."

Jim closed the gate and picked up a stick. He tossed it up. "Get it, boy!" he told Major.

Major hesitated. If they only knew what a busy afternoon he had actually had! But the habit of obedience was deeply instilled and he gave a little "woof!" and dived for the stick.

"Good boy!" said Jim as he accepted it.

Major cocked his head on one side and grinned. Humans were delightful beings. It took so little to make them happy.

DURBAN, South Africa — Fifteen members of the Durban church who helped prepare the hall for Herbert W. Armstrong's Plain Truth lecture in this city (The Worldwide News, June 21) had a private meeting with him June 12.

The meeting was at a cocktail party given by Bob Fahey, director of the South African Work, and his wife in their suite at the Cabana Beach Hotel, 15 minutes north of here.

Commenting on the lecture, which had taken place earlier in the day, Mr. Armstrong declared that he had had "one of the finest-quality" and "one of the most attentive" audiences on the trip.

"I think it was very successful this afternoon," he added. "Some people heard things they'd never heard before and won't hear anywhere else."

before and won't hear anywhere else. There's something that I wanted to impress upon everyone today: that we are not just another Protestant denomination."

Seated in the middle of a semi-circle of attentive Church members, Mr. Armstrong related several of his early experiences in the Work.

"I believe," he emphasized at one point, "that God is working out things as they are as an example to the other two-thirds of the angels on

Friend's niece held hostage in hijacking

PASADENA — One of the hostages held in a terminal building at the airport in Entebbe, Uganda, who were freed July 4 by Israeli airborne commandos after being held captive by Palestinian terrorists since June 27, is the niece of the secretary to Israel's Minister of Tourism Moshe Kol, according to Stanley Rader, the Work's vice president for financial affairs.

Minister Kol and his secretary are friends of Herbert W. Armstrong and have visited Ambassador College here.

The Palestinian hijackers had directed the Air France jetliner, on a flight from Tel Aviv to Paris with 256 aboard, to fly to Uganda. They demanded the Israeli government release 53 terrorists imprisoned in Israel and four other countries in exchange for the hostages' release.

The hijackers freed all but 106 of the hostages July 1, detaining only those with Israeli or dual citizenship and the plane's crew.

and the plane's crew.

On June 30 Mr. Rader had called Minister Kol's office from Paris. "His secretary, a longtime friend, was in tears at the sound of my voice," Mr. Rader said. "Her only niece, 16 years of age, was one of the hostages being held in Uganda.

"You can imagine my concern and how brutally stark the realities of the affair were brought to my mind in a manner so different from the newspaper headlines that all of us tended to react to with too blasé an attitude."

The Associated Press quoted an Air France spokesman as saying the Israeli raiding force, landing in three military planes, "apparently has million dollars, and, as phase two of the same study, to provide me with details as to what would occur if we were to cut the allocations by a quarter million. By these and other methods we are continually striving to do God's Work within the means which He provides.

Have You Seen 'PT'?

Have you seen our bicentennial issue of The Plain Truth magazine? I was able to review the plans for the cover prior to its printing and felt this is our most attractive cover ever. As I paged through the magazine I was pleased over the beauty and symmetry in the layout as well as the content.

I think it is a fitting publication to come out at this time of the year of America's celebrating its 200th birthday, and I know all of you were as pleased as I was with the beauty (and did you notice the increased size?) of this latest Plain Truth magazine. We are all expecting that it is going to have a greater and ever-widening impact on the general public as we strengthen and sharpen the focus of God's Work both in the electronic and the printed media.

Another new addition to our publishing family is Co-Worker Newsletter, pictured on this page. This will go to co-workers and other contributors to the Work and will contain newsy articles on various facets of the Work, giving them an insider's view of all related activities in the Work of God, even including excerpted material from the pages of The Worldwide News from time to time. This is not information or material which you members do not receive; you will receive this material and much, much more both through The Worldwide News and through my father's letters and mine, but it is an attempt to more fully inform our co-workers about the Work. Since they are actively helping support the Work with their contributions, we felt we wanted a more lively and spirited manner of showing them the Work's activities on a worldwide scale, hence the idea of a co-workers' newsletter which can include pictures and brief articles.

Kids: the best crop they grew

AMERICAN FALLS, Idaho — Seventy years ago Karl Mauch immigrated with his family to the United States from the Ukraine. His wife-to-be followed a year later with her family, and on June 24, 1911, they married. Now celebrating their 65th wedding anniversary, the Mauchs look back on long, full lives of farming, raising flax, wheat, barley, oats, rye and kids. "They [the kids] were our best crop," said Mrs. Mauch of the 15 children they raised.

Karl and Katharina, members of the Church since 1954, homesteaded in several counties in North Dakota from 1911 to 1934, when they settled down in New Rockford, N.D., on a 160-acre farm. For the next 13 years they farmed and raised their family, and in 1947 Karl sold his farm to his oldest son, Martin, and retired.

Karl has a reputation because of the produce he grows in his gardens. He has been known to produce people had experienced a similar affliction of a type of laryngitis which results in a deep, dry cough and is like a severe summer cold. The most annoying part of it is that it has prevented me from broadcasting for nearly two weeks, and I have had to use a number of repeats from months and years previously! Quite a number of other people in the Work have also been afflicted with the same thing, and I suppose some of you people reading this know exactly what I am talking about, since I understand it has gone over a widespread area almost like an epidemic. However, it seems to be in its last stages now, and I am expecting to be hard at work doing radio broadcasting again in the very near future.

It is almost impossible to believe, but summer is rapidly drawing to a close (at least it seems so), and almost before we know it the Ambassador College campuses will be teeming with hundreds upon hundreds of new students once again.

Before that, however, I hope to be in Orr, Minn., for the beginning of the second session of our YOU Summer Educational Program and then go to Britain, where I hope to speak for the very first time to the Glasgow church on the Sabbath and be with the Bricket Wood and London brethren for a social in the college gym on Sunday night.

I will be taking Mr. Leslie McCullough, director of the International Division, along with me, which will give him an opportunity for meetings with Mr. Frank Brown, director of the churches and the Work in Britain. Also, I hope to stop at SEP in Scotland (on beautiful Loch Lomond, near Glasgow) during this brief trip.

Renewal Time

I hope all of you remember that it is renewal time (and almost past time!) once again. I have repeatedly asked for a showing of hands when I have been in various of our local churches throughout the past few years as to how many read The Worldwide News, and there always seems to be a 100 percent showing. I know that it is easy, however, in the crowded moments of each day to put something aside we intend doing. And then, almost before we know it, a few weeks or a month has gone by and, although we may have fully intended doing it, we have forgotten. So I hope all of you will want to renew your subscription to The Worldwide News. See page 16 for further details.

One final point: Do you as a member of the Worldwide Church of God in your daily prayers include a request to your God to inspire and open the minds of yet additional hu-dreds and thousands of people to help in this great Work? I feel it is incumbent upon each of us as a committee of one to be directly involved in our personal prayer lives in beseeching God to see to it that larger and larger numbers of people are inspired to help us shoulder the burden of this great Work.

You brethren are doing a magnificent job in supporting the Work. I have had a steady stream of literally thousands of letters over the past year or so, a steady stream of huge cards signed by every member of a local congregation and letters from ministers, elders, deacons and others who are serving in ministerial capacities or service-oriented jobs in the Work, and I know that the feelings of loyalty, dedication, zealous support and enthusiasm are running higher than ever before! It is not a question of the willingness or the sacrifice of those who are members of God's Church; it's merely the question of the number of us there are to help shoulder the burden.

As Jesus told His disciples to lift up their eyes to see that the fields were white with harvest, so it is that we must all realize there are literally hundreds of thousands or millions of people who are searching for meaningful answers to the daily problems of this life, as well as the perplexing international situations in the world today — and God does interfere and intervene as a direct result of our prayers!

If all of you will join me in seeking God daily that He will add more and more co-workers and members to His Church, opening the minds and hearts of thousands of individuals to see the same precious truths you have been privileged to see, then God's Work will continue to grow in scope and power and will reach into millions of homes and right up into government offices and into the ears of the leaders of nations as it should.

Again, thank you very much for the tremendous support you have all shown. I want you to know my father and I sincerely appreciate it very much! To all of you brethren in local areas I've been able to visit within the past few weeks, a special thanks for the deep expressions of your love and loyalty, and I hope to be able to visit more of our outlying churches in the months to come! Until next time . . .

With love, in Jesus' name,
Garner Ted Armstrong

Dinner and Dance

BONN — More than 50 members of the Duesseldorf, Bonn and Frankfurt churches met in the Bonn headquarters office of the German Work for a dinner and dance June 6 after Pentecost services.

Since the members of the German churches are scattered throughout the country, the opportunity to meet together had special meaning.

Dinner was served buffet style from 6 until 7 in the newly remodeled recreation room on the ground floor of the office building. Sausages were provided for the dinner by Tony Hirber, a member who operates an all-beef-sausage stand in Austria.

The dance began at 7 and continued until the wee hours of the morning. Music for the dance was provided by Mark and Paul Schnee, sons of Frank Schnee, director of the German Work, and two professional musicians from Austria, also members. Randall Brelsford.

BRICKET WOOD, England — Plans called for the final meeting of the year for the A and B Spokesmen clubs here to be a joint ladies' night June 16. Members of the two clubs planned to assemble with their wives or dates at the Aldenham Byre, a country club, for a formal dinner meeting, at which a number of diplomas were to be presented.

The two clubs enjoyed a successful year. Among their fruits, six members were added to the local sermonette schedule in recent weeks. These men now have the opportunity to serve by speaking before many of the churches in the Southeast of England. Edward Smith.

Big Sandy Camporee

BIG SANDY — Lightning, rain and hail tested the camping ability of 45 boys and their adult advisers who inaugurated a Boy Scout camporee at Lake Loma (on the Ambassador campus) over the Memorial Day weekend.

Gwyn Williams, committee chairman from San Antonio, Tex., commented, "The adverse weather conditions only added a challenging element to their camping experience."

The camporee, coordinated by Big Sandy scoutmaster Edmund Smith, consisted of two patrols from Dallas, Tex., Troop 1212, two from San Antonio Troop 455, one from Broken Arrow, Okla., Troop 977 and two from Big Sandy Troop 198.

The camp started with registration May 30, camp setup and swimming.

Grads Wrap Up

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — The Spokesman Graduate Club met at the Oriental Gardens Cafe for its final speaking meeting, a ladies' night, May 30. A cocktail hour followed by an oriental meal set the speakers and evaluators up for an effective session.

Sessions through the year had been less formal than Spokesman Club, so when the speakers got into the swing of things, and were effective and formal, the speakers and evaluators were satisfied with their year's work and progress.

Local elder Al Tunseth acted as Valerie Pickett, Gail Riley, Marlene Spearman and Jackie Thomas sang selections from the '50s, and a barbershop quartet made up of Joe Baroosi, Ed Engelhart, Ray Newby and Ed Rubin entertained.

Britons Walk

BRISTOL, England — The church here took part in a 15-mile sponsored charity walk May 31 to raise at least 150 pounds (about $300) for wheelchairs for a local handicapped people's association.

Thirty people, including children, started out from St. Annes at 10 a.m. and walked through the city to a beauty spot. A picnic lunch was eaten under the trees, because of showery weather.

The last nine miles of the walk were undertaken by 20 people. The route followed a path along the River Avon, covering the 17 major river bridges of Bristol.

The idea for the walk had been by Bristol minister Bruce Kent. The highest-sponsored walker was David Cox, with 40 pounds. Close behind was Leslie Buckley, sponsored by the Plymouth church. David Stebbins had planned the route. Andrew R. Steel and David Stebbins.

Hawaiian Luau

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — A Hawaiian luau, sponsored by the Women's Club and Spokesmen Club here, was held in the Monticello Community Center May 30.

The evening, designed to be as Hawaiian as possible, was a combination of four events: a Women's Club party, Spokesmen Club ladies' night, Spokesmen graduation and festive church activity.

The Hawaiian atmosphere put close to 150 people, dressed in bright colors, in a festive mood.

Hawaiian drinks provided by Ed Allen and Hawaiian food prepared by Ruby Wait and her assistants started the evening.

Next came the diplomas to those graduating Spokesmen.

The night's entertainment, described as excellent by minister Robert Persky, consisted of a movie, This Is Hawaii; "Blue Hawaii," sung by Jonnie Perry, Kay Persky, Anita Sills and Mary Kyle; a guitar solo by Bobbie Sills; and a hula professionally performed by Maxine Bauer.

Marinated by Injection

COURTENAY, B.C. — With visitors from Victoria, a gathering May 23 for Courtenay's annual barbecue numbered about 150.

The site was secluded clearing surrounded by trees and overlooking a river. The area had been donated to the church by Mr. and Mrs. J. Bliewert.

Some campers had spent the previous night tending a fire and preparing the coals for the spit. A whole beef, donated by one of the brethren, was the main attraction. It had been marinated by injection with spices and wine and placed on a pole over the spit at 5 a.m. The pole was attached to a motor by which it was turned during the cooking.

After eight hours the beef was let down and the 150 starving mouths fed with the tender, succulent meat. Afterwards Courtenay challenged was warmly received for her singing; Sally Thomas and Rodney Overstreet demonstrated dances.

The first annual Bonehead Awards were presented by Mike and Vicki Long to teens who have made impressions on others by their personalities, talents and mistakes.

This was followed by the players on the Dallas teenage boys' basketball team, who sang "The Impossible Dream" a cappella to prove they have talent in other areas. Kim Lowery.

Trip to AC

DAYTON, Ohio — Thirty-seven Youth Opportunities United (YOU) members and nine advisers left here the evening of June 12 on a week-long trip to Ambassador College, Big Sandy.

One of the first YOU chapters to participate in the new YO open-house program at the college, the group drove down in a recently purchased reconditioned bus for a week's activities that included archery, tennis, basketball, horseback riding, swimming, canoeing and tours of the campus.

Slides were shown by the Science Department, and the YOU members had a chance to become familiar with the campus and get to tivities that kept the singles at play.

A bicentennial ball, at the Top o' the Tower, turned out real fine. Singles capped the weekend by dining and dancing over the Des Moines skyline.

Sharon Kimbrough, Dave Holmes, Fran Hoffurt, Thelma Bowby and Liz Wright all won awards for their costume attire at the ball that night.

Teamwork from the Des Moines singles made the weekend come through, and Bash reps in 24 church areas, we'd also like to thank you!

Yes, the Bash will be back in '77! We promise an even better one, but we can't promise heaven! Mike Bacon.

Three Events

EVANSVILLE, Ind. — The church here had three major events in May.

May 30 was the date of the congregation's first crafts sale, held inside the Washington Square Mall. This sale and others like it are to raise money for commercials on radio and television advertising Garner Ted Armstrong's radio and TV broadcasts.

Many members contributed and participated to make this first sale a success.

On Saturday, May 22, after sunset one of Evansville's greatest teen dances was held, honoring teens and exteens who are students at AC. All college students were admitted free of charge.

Don Kessel and company provided music (records). Throughout the night license-plate numbers were called; those who recognized their numbers received a prize of $1.

May 8 was the night of the YOU church talent show, which gave the judges a tough time determining the winners. The junior-class winner was Dana Glover, doing her own "Hee Haw" skit. Senior-class winner was Donna Wilson. Both will participate at the Feast competition this year. David R. Knight.

Values of Womanhood

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. — The goal of the Ladies' Club here this year has been to help each member recapture the true values of womanhood and prepare the whole woman to serve in her roll of wife, mother and leader among women.

Club members took on several charity projects and plan a fund-raising fair booth this summer at the Ottawa County Fair.

They have had stimulating, helpful and interesting meetings on womanhood, first aid, floral arranging, breast cancer and arts, crafts and hobbies.

The club plans a banquet with husbands and guests on Aug. 1 at Point West Restaurant in Holland, Mich. Thelma Hallack.

Campers Here and There

GREENSBORO, N.C. — The church here had its annual camp-out, despite forecasts of thundershowers, the first weekend in May. The scene of the camp, arrayed with multicolored tents and a camper here and there, was reminiscent of a Feast of Tabernacles in Jekyll Island or Big Sandy.

A Bible study was conducted Friday evening, followed by Sabbath services the next day at noon.

The whole camp met again Saturday evening for a square dance in the dining hall, with Bill Renegar and his band providing music. Phil Reid.

6-to-11 Outing

HATTIESBURG, Miss. — The 6-to-11 age-group here held its first activity of the summer May 30 at Kamper Park under the direction of Charles Voss, a member. About 30 children were present.

Pastor and director of the club Carl Gustafson gave some points and reasons on the selection of club officers during his comments. The new men were taken by surprise and were installed into office by the outgoing officers, who introduced them as President Wallace Mangun, Vice President Tony Homyk, secretary Scott Regnier, treasurer Ken Adams and sergeant at arms Ron Mogavero.

The closing remarks by Mr. Gustafson, on the importance of the club, completed the formality. Dancing, fellowship and congratulatory toasts were next. Paul P. Dzing.

Name of the Game

HOUSTON, Tex. — Surprise was the name of the game at a potluck picnic May 27 at the Philip Pettyjohn home here. The guests of honor, Mrs. Ruby Alexander, a longtime member, and her sister from Rhode Island, Mrs. Eric Carroll, were the honored ladies. They received numerous gifts that they would later share.

The Lunch Bunch, a club, also was glad to have Judy Briseno able to leave the hospital and join the group. A victim of emphysema, Mrs. Briseno is undergoing therapy at St. Anthony's Center here. Doloros Saikkin and Ruth Pettyjohn.

A wine tasting was also part of the meeting. Sarah Parker.

Combined Volleyball

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — A combined volleyball tournament and picnic was held here May 23 for the Johannesburg, Pretoria and East Rand churches.

Eight teams in the men's section and five in the women's competed for honors in one of the best turnouts for this type of activity.

Seventy-eight young and not so young participated, with many more enjoying the winter sunshine, food and fellowship.

The Johannesburg A team came out winners in the men's division, after an arduous tussle with the relatively inexperienced singles A team in the finals.

Fred Schor and Jorge de Campos for the winning team, Mark Naude for the singles and a comparative newcomer to the game, Tony Levy, for the Johannesburg B side deserve special mention for their aggressive but clean performances.

For the ladies, all played well and were perhaps more balanced, though less spectacular, than their male counterparts.

Erna Barnard, former Bricket Wood student, led her Johannesburg A side to a deserved victory over Pretoria A in the finals. This was thanks mainly to the freshness of final server Elise van Belkum when all wrists around her seemed to be failing. Dan Greyling.

Kingston Cruise

KINGSTON, Ont. — Wouldn't it be exciting to have a moonlight cruise on a paddleboat? On June 12, Terry Johnson, pastor here, rented such a boat and invited surrounding church areas to come for a ride on the river.

The paddleboat resembled those of days gone by that traveled up and down the Mississippi. There was no minstrel show, but a lively band played for everyone's enjoyment.

Members were asked to perform, including Gary Anton, district superintendent of the Ontario churches, and Rob Elliot, pastor of the Peterborough church. The crew sailed shortly after 8 p.m. and cruised until after midnight. About 300 members enjoyed the river ride. Rita Jardim.

The winners for the second time in a row were Pat and Sharon DeVaughn, members here, who were also the oldest couple competing.

Rumor has it that the DeVaughns are so fast they would win even if the Fontana, Calif., church competed at the next picnic. Charles P. Scott.

Tree-Surrounded Setting

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — A tree-surrounded pavilion was the setting for the A.M. and P.M. Little Rock women's clubs' meeting May 23. The year-end program featured a fashion show.

Fifteen members modeled fashions from their own wardrobes in these categories: Sabbath wear, casual, businesswoman, afternoon tea, western, maternity and evening. Moderator was minister's wife Peggy Wooten.

Mickey Akins, Lois Bierman and Rita Hodges had set up the refreshment table, which featured daisies, petits fours and pink lemonade.

Summer Social

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Members of the Nashville East and West (Dickson) churches held their first summer social June 13, at Henry Horton State Park, near Chapel Hill, Tenn., with a large group in attendance.

The temperature, near 90 degrees, failed to dampen the spirits of the brethren as they engaged in varied activities that kept them going throughout the day.

But the most refreshing part was the pool, where swimming was the big hit.

A 1:30 meeting of teens and parents was held for those youngsters who had earlier indicated that they would be part of a group journeying to Big Sandy for a week of activities beginning June 20. Fred Bailey, associate pastor here, pointed out that, while the trip was intended as an outing, the teens must in turn follow rules and regulations to assure the success of the venture.

Church pastor Tony Hammer also spoke briefly and introduced Ted Phillips, former pastor of the Gadsden and Anniston, Ala., churches, who will assume pastorate of the Dickson-Jackson churches, a new circuit beginning in mid-July. Dickson until now has been known as Nashville West. Everett Corbin.

The next morning found the group gathered at Oxbow Park, near here, for a pancake brunch. The brethren visited and took walks in the natural setting, and the children went on a nature hike and then drew their ideas of Pentecost past and present. A small zoo was also within walking distance.

In the afternoon, services were held in the same setting. A violin solo was played by David Malcomson as the offering was taken up, and special music was provided by the choir. The highlighting event was the ordination of Bob Happel as a deacon. Judy Bushlack.

Canoe Party

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Members of the church here enjoyed a 17-mile canoe trip down the subtropical Peace River, near Arcadia, Fla., May 30.

The canoe party was launched at 10:30. About halfway along the trip, the group went ashore on a secluded peninsula for a picnic. After lunch the party was quickly enlivened as the last canoe and its occupants capsized as it was being launched.

Other high points of the trip were watching several of the teenage girls run into banks, logs and bushes as they canoed for the first time, and observing or participating in the "swamping" exercise at the trip's end in which the teens and Robert Jones, the minister, were participants. *Lavene L. SAN DIEGO, Calif. — Graduation exercises and a dinner-dance for members of Escondido and San Diego Spokesmen clubs and guests was held June 13 at the Admiral Kidd Club here.

The brief program included table topics conducted by Dean Smith, a farewell speech by retiring President Dale Taber and the main address by church pastor James Friddle, who spoke on the value of Spokesmen clubs to the men in the Church.

Certificates of merit were presented to the four graduates of the San Diego club; Jerry W. Hammons, Alvin M. Miller Jr., Carl E. Mullinix and Dale H. Taber. There were no graduates from Escondido this year, since the club was first formed last fall. Fifty-two men from both churches are club alumni.

Winner of the women's rotational doubles point system was Sharon Ivicovic, who outpointed her mother, Bea Ivicovic, who placed second. Third-place winner was Laurie Sass.

The men's play was conducted on a double-elimination basis, giving each player one chance to reenter the tourney though losing. Jim Butler came out the winner, and second place was earned by 15-year-old Eric Shquist, the only teenager to compete. Bob Gardiner placed third. All games were played on the Mesa College courts. Susan Karoska.

Dwindling Pygmies

SAN JOSE, Calif. — Explorer Jean-Pierre Hallet spoke to a benefit gathering of more than 800 people at the Center for Performing Arts here May 26, after a screening of his 90-minute documentary film, Pygmies.

The benefit, held under the auspices of the Ambassador International Cultural Foundation (AICF), raised $4,000 for Mr. Hallet to promote his effort to help the Pygmy people survive. He spoke of how he lived with the Pygmies, watching them dwindle from 35,000 happy, healthy people in the 1930s to 3,800 today, needing outside help to avoid extinction.

Two days before the benefit, Mr. Hallet had been interviewed on a San Francisco television show and on a radio talk show. Arvine C. Walton.

Shreveport Ladies

SHREVEPORT, La. — The Ladies' Club climaxed the end of its first year with a men's-night banquet June 13 at the Holiday Inn North here. Sixty-three members and guests enjoyed a dinner followed by table topics presented by Betty Boze.

After a break, a program entitled "The Three Faces of Eve" was given by Karen Haworth, Judy Walker and Gladys McDowell, which focused on the changing roles of women in society and featured slides the ladies had prepared themselves.

An appreciation plaque was given to the minister and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bradford, for their help. Red and pink decorations had been furnished by Becky Burks.

During the year several interesting programs were given. In February Mary Ogwyn and Becky Burks gave tips on "getting along without a man around the house." The March program, called "Recycling Things Around the House," was presented by Peggy Corley and Sherry Coleman. In April Judy Walker and Bess Chumley taught the ladies about "nutrition and weight control." Judy Walker.

End of Year

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. — The Women's Club celebrated the end of a year with a men's night May 29. The evening was a takeoff on the traditional Spokesmen Club ladies' night with the ladies providing entertainment and speeches and arranging dining and dancing facilities for their husbands and friends.

The 26 club members attended five monthly meetings from December, 1975, to April, 1976, working toward the goal of making "a real breakthrough or improvement in your confidence and positive concept of yourself."

The club motto, "Who can find a virtuous woman?", is taken from Proverbs 31:10. It was coupled with the acronym IALAC (for "I Am Lovable and Capable"), the main theme of the first meeting, on finding "hidden talents."

Mrs. Charles Scott, director, was presented with a watch and decoupage plaque as gifts of appreciation.

Mr. Scott, minister of the congregation, presented certificates of merit to Betty Waltner, Eleanor Salzman, Carol Reining, Virginia Petersen, Nadine VanLacken, Darlene Ihler, Mabel Griffin, Rosetta Helseth, Darlene Crank and Joan Pulis as "women who made significant breakthroughs in their positive concepts of themselves" throughout the club year. David Helseth.

Sheep Roast

TEMORA, Australia — It was a surprise when, during the announcements at services June 12, the previous minister for this area, Brian Orchard, and his family walked in. Colin Sutcliffe, now pastor, was quick in handing over the remainder of the service to him.

Afterwards about 100 members, some having traveled nearly 400 miles for the long weekend, enjoyed themselves at a barbecue and square dance in Narraburra Hall.

The next day was spent with sports and games and a sheep roast on the farm of Albert Heinrich.

After a few hours of barn dancing into the middle of this winter's night, neither the full moon nor the frost kept anyone from a good night's sleep; many curled up in a sleeping bag next to the burning logs.

The proceeds of $3 per adult will help finance coming public film afternoons in this area. Fritz Sondereger.

Farewell to the Wilsons

VANCOUVER, B.C. — Dean Wilson, recently ordained evangelist and director of the Canadian Work, and his wife were honored by a farewell dinner and dance June 13.

The evening's activities began with a smorgasbord provided and attended by about 600 church members. During the dinner a trophy was presented to the winning softball team.

This was followed by a session of comedy and talent, the highlight of which was by Lynn Sanchez, who yodeled her way to an encore with a stirring rendition of the song "He Taught Me to Yodel."

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson were presented with a gift of silver serving trays.

Mr. Wilson commented on his love for Canada and his reluctance to leave, but added that the Work will always come first. His parting thought: "Enjoy life and look forward to tomorrow because it's going to be good for all of us." Steve and Lorna Lukinuk.

PASADENA — The U.S. edition of The Plain Truth is now being printed in and mailed from Chicago, Ill., according to Art Ferdig, the magazine's managing editor.

The R.R. Donnelley & Sons Co. began printing The Plain Truth with the June issue, after the first of the new magazine format, the April-May issue, was printed by the W.A.

Krueger Co. here.

The production staff of the PT sends negatives from here to Donnelley, where printing plates are made from them.

Because the magazines are mailed by Donnelley, which Mr. Ferdig said is the "largest publications printer of their kind in the world," readers on the East Coast should receive their copies somewhat earlier each month.
